MARCH 2018

Women show their voter identity cards while in queue outside a polling station in Kathmandu, Nepal. On May 14, 2017, Nepal held phase one of their first local elections in 20 years. More than 14 million voters across 75 districts were registered to elect 34,908 local-level legislative executive representatives over three phases – the second and third phases took place on June 28 and September 18, 2017.
