Souvenir Cards

Two souvenir cards have been produced by the Electoral Affairs Commission to commemorate the first Legislative Council Election of the HKSAR.

The first souvenir card, along with a poll card, will be sent to registered voters about 10 days before election day – May 24, 1998.

The second card, and a card holder for both cards, will be issued to voters after they have voted on May 24.

Introduction

On May 24, 1998, the first Legislative Council (LegCo) election of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (HKSAR) will be held.

The objective of the Government for this historic election is to produce a legislature which is credible and representative. The Government is committed to ensuring that the electoral arrangements are fair, open and honest and acceptable to the people of Hong Kong.

The first LegCo election of the HKSAR will be conducted in accordance with the provisions in the Basic Law and the Legislative Council Ordinance. The entire electoral process will be supervised by an independent statutory body, the Electoral Affairs Commission. The Independent Commission Against Corruption will also help to ensure a clean election.

The '1998 Election Special' is intended as a general reference and a commemorative publication on this important election. It is also intended to promote participation by all sectors of the community in an election which will have a significant bearing on the future of the HKSAR - our home.

Please take the time to familiarise yourself with Hong Kong's electoral system and the candidates for whom you will be voting to be your representatives in the LegCo.

“Democracy is the hallmark of a new era for Hong Kong. The Special Administrative Region Government will resolutely move forward to a more democratic form of government in accordance with the provisions in the Basic Law. We will provide opportunities for every stratum of society and legitimate political organisations, and people with different shades of opinion, to participate in the political process. The Special Administrative Region Government will adopt an open attitude and be accountable to the public.”

The Chief Executive, Mr Tung Chee Hwa, speaking at the ceremony to mark the establishment of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region on July 1, 1997.

“The coming election is particularly meaningful as it is the first Legislative Council election after the establishment of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region. You can vote to elect your Legislative Council representatives. The active participation of the public and the candidates in the election will mark an important step towards the realisation of ‘Hong Kong people running Hong Kong’.”

The Chief Secretary for Administration, Mrs Anson Chan, speaking at the opening ceremony of the ‘Election Carnival’ held on April 4, 1998

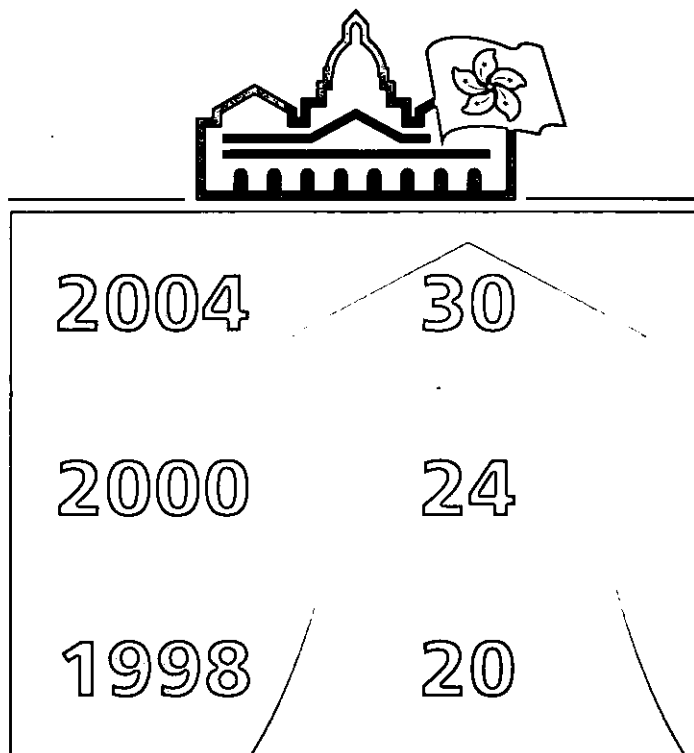

“The work of the Legislative Council is closely related to the life of Hong Kong people. As a voter, you can vote in the coming election and elect your representatives to the Legislative Council. Don’t give up your chance to vote. In fact, the voting procedures are very simple and easy. It will only take you a few minutes to cast your vote. Why not go ahead with it?”

The Secretary for Constitutional Affairs, Mr Michael Suen, speaking at the opening ceremony of the ‘Roving Exhibition for the 1998 Legislative Council Election’ on March 12, 1998

Overall Framework

- Hong Kong's Legislative Council has had direct elections by universal suffrage in geographical constituencies since 1991.
- The Basic Law sets out the blueprint for Hong Kong's democratic development. It provides for a steady increase in the number of geographical seats in the immediate future: 20 for the first term of LegCo in 1998; 24 for the second term in 2000; and 30 for the third term in 2004.
- According to the Basic Law (Article 68), the method for forming the Legislative Council shall be specified in the light of the actual situation in the HKSAR and in accordance with the principle of gradual and orderly progress. The ultimate aim is to elect all 60 LegCo members by universal suffrage. The Basic Law provides a mechanism for Hong Kong people to decide how best to achieve that aim after 2007.

Geographical Constituencies

Powers and Functions of the Legislative Council

LegCo's powers and functions include the following:

● To enact laws

● To debate issues concerning public interests

● To raise questions on the work of the Government

● To examine and approve budgets, taxation and public expenditure

● To receive and handle complaints from Hong Kong residents

First LegCo Election of the HKSAR

- The first LegCo election of the HKSAR will be held on May 24, 1998.
- All 60 LegCo members will be returned by elections as follows:
 - 20 from geographical constituencies
 - 30 from functional constituencies
 - 10 from an Election Committee

How much do you know about the election?

- (1) How many seats will be returned through the Geographical Constituency, Functional Constituency and Election Committee elections respectively?
 - A. 30,20,10
 - B. 10,20,30
 - C. 20,30,10
- (2) Which voting system will be adopted in the Geographical Constituency elections?
 - A. List Voting System
 - B. Preferential Elimination Voting System
 - C. 'First-past-the post' System
- (3) How do you cast your vote in the Geographical Constituency elections?

 - C. Mark a '✓' inside the circle opposite the list of your choice.
- (4) The Election Hotline number is:
 - A. 2588 1212
 - B. 1234 5678
 - C. 8765 4321

Geographical Constituency Elections

- 20 LegCo members will be returned from five geographical constituencies (GCs):

Hong Kong Island	:	4 seats
Kowloon East	:	3 seats
Kowloon West	:	3 seats
New Territories East	:	5 seats
New Territories West	:	5 seats
Total	:	20 seats

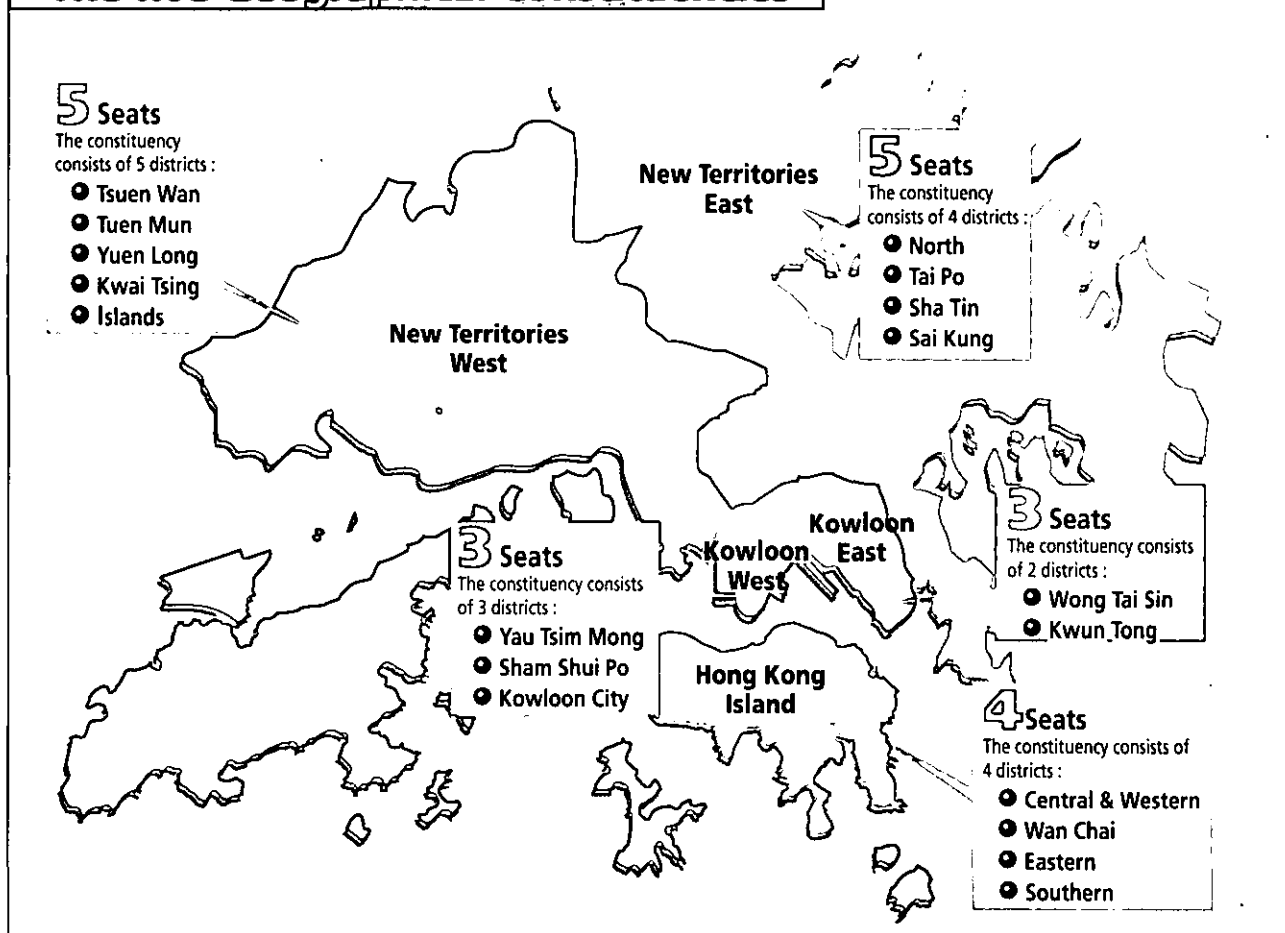

- Geographical Constituency elections will be by universal suffrage. All the 2.8 million registered voters have the right to vote.

- The List Voting System operating under the Largest Remainder Formula - a form of proportional representation voting system - will be used.

- Each voter can cast one vote in his or her constituency.

- Voting is simple and easy. All a voter has to do is to choose one of the lists printed on the ballot paper and mark a tick '✓' in the circle next to it.

The five Geographical Constituencies

Geographical Constituency Elections

The List Voting System

- Is open and fair and is commonly used in many countries
- Can produce a result which more accurately reflects voter preference
- Can accommodate future increases in geographical seats as envisaged in the Basic Law

Distribution of seats under the List Voting System

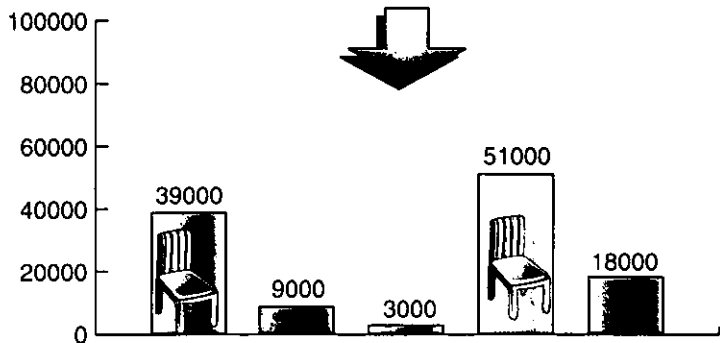

Largest Remainder Formula

- If:
- ① 5-seat constituency
 - ② A total of 300,000 valid votes

- Then:
- ③ Each list getting 1/5 (i.e. 60,000) of the votes will get a seat
 - ④ The candidate ranked first on that list will be elected
 - ⑤ Any remaining seats will be awarded to the lists with the largest number of remaining votes

- ⑥ These candidates will be elected

Functional Constituency Elections

- 30 LegCo members will be returned by 28 functional constituencies (FCs)
- The FCs represent various sectors of the community - for example the professions, commerce, industry, labour and social welfare - which play a crucial role in the development of Hong Kong.
- The 30 LegCo members will be returned through the following FCs:

- | | | |
|-----------------------------|--|---|
| 1 Urban Council | 11 Health Services | 20 Industrial (First) |
| 2 Regional Council | 12 Engineering | 21 Industrial (Second) |

Election Committee Election

- 10 LegCo members will be returned by the Election Committee (EC).

Composition of the EC

- The EC has 800 members, all of whom are HKSAR permanent residents. They come from four sectors, each with 200 members, namely:

- Industrial, commercial and financial
- The professions
- Labour, social services and religious
- Members of the Provisional Legislative Council (PLC),

Hong Kong deputies to the National People's Congress (NPC), representatives of Hong Kong members of the National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, and representatives of district-based organisations.

- The majority of the 800 EC members were returned by sub-sector elections on April 2, 1998, with the exception of the ex officio members (PLC members and Hong Kong deputies to the NPC), and nominees from the religious sub-sector.

Singer Alan Tam performs the election theme song, encouraging all registered voters in Hong Kong to vote on May 24.

It's My Home

(Translation)

It's my home that keeps my dreams, my heart and everything I love. This will not change throughout my life.

For this home, I put in happiness. I will care for you every day. Let your beauty stay.

I will do whatever I can. Hope you can feel: all my attention and love.

All that I do is especially for you. Hope you know: all my care is good for you.

For my home's future, our beautiful future, let's build our bright future together.

For our home, our future, show your concern and cast your vote.

Electoral Affairs Commission

The Electoral Affairs Commission (EAC) is an independent, impartial and apolitical statutory body established in September 1997. It is responsible for overseeing the first Legislative Council election of the HKSAR. It comprises three members, all of whom were appointed by the Chief Executive.

The EAC is responsible for:

- Ensuring the elections are conducted fairly, openly and honestly;
- Making recommendations on the delineation of geographical constituencies;
- Making regulations, guidelines and arrangements for the conduct of elections, including the supervision of the registration of electors.

The EAC is chaired by a High Court Judge, Mr Justice Woo Kwok-hing. The two other members are Mr Norman Leung Nai-pang and Ms Elizabeth Shing Shiu-ching.
